WESTERLY'S FIRE DEPARTMENT

Did Valiant Work at Slocum Building Fire—New Road May Be Named Peabody Avenue—Small Strike at Thread Mill—Caledonian Society's Sixteenth Anniversary Celebration.

James W. Stillman has taken one of his cases against Joseph C. Moore to the Rhode Island general assembly. Moore has petitioned to remit $29.40 to Mr. Stillman, costs in a case against Mr. Moore of Westerly, has been presented to the house by Representative Cranston and referred to the joint committee on claims and accounts.

This bill of complaint and petition of Mr. Stillman told in detail of the case. Mr. Stillman complained of Mr. Moore, charging the crime of perjury, at a trial of a case brought by Mr. Moore against Mr. Stillman to recover $2,000 for an alleged libel written by Mr. Stillman and published in a Westerly newspaper, Aug. 26, 1907. The court exonerated Mr. Moore of the charge of perjury and ordered Mr. Stillman to pay costs amounting to $29.40. Mr. Stillman now asks the state to return to him the costs paid in this case.

Chief Engineer Cottrell and his firemen did efficient work early Saturday morning in keeping the fire in Railroad avenue confined to the Slocum building, where it originated from an over-heated stove. The Slocum building is a two-story frame structure, closely packed on one side by the Young stable and on the other by the Stanton horse-shoeing shop, all owned by the same person, the A. L. Chester estate. Although nearly 2 o'clock in the morning when the fire was discovered, the firemen had water on the building within six minutes after the alarm was sent in, and by heroic work prevented a big fire. Both stable and blacksmith shop took fire, but the flames were fought so vigorously that the damage to these buildings was comparatively slight. As a precautionary measure the horses, carriages, harness, etc., in the stable were removed. The Slocum building is probably burned beyond repair, and the contents, composed mainly of second-hand furniture, clothing, etc., were almost entirely consumed.

Men and teams are busy at work building the new road in the town of Stonington that is to connect with the road built by the town of Westerly. An approach to the Norwich-Westerly trolley road bridge over the Pawcatuck river. The work on the new road is being paid for by subscriptions of people of Westerly and Stonington principally, the land being given for highway purposes. When the road is completed it will make a short cut between Westerly and North Stonington, and divert the heavy traffic that now passes through the village of Pawcatuck, and that is one of the reasons why a Stonington town meeting is being held to build the new road that was planned over the new trolley bridge.

Several men interested in the extension of this highway to the North Stonington road have suggested that the new highway be named Peabody avenue, for Judge Thomas H. Peabody, as it is mainly through his efforts that the road will become a reality.

Thirty years ago he was the prime mover in bridging the Pawcatuck for a highway to North Stonington, but not exactly at the present location. He succeeded in having the commission appointed in the state of Connecticut to investigate and report on the subject. The commission being composed of Thomas M. Waller, John Brewster and Nathan W. Ayres, but the commission made unfavorable report, and it was said at the time for political reasons.

As a member of the Westerly town council, Mr. Peabody drew the franchise for the Norwich and Westerly trolley road and insisted on clause that compelled it to build and maintain in connection with the steel bridge over the Pawcatuck a driveway for vehicles and sidewalk for pedestrians. This was done. Then Mr. Peabody recommended appropriation for building a macadam road as approach to the bridge. After this was completed the town of Stonington refused to co-operate in the appellation "The road that leads to Norwich."

Mr. Peabody also became interested in this later and successful proposition to build a macadam road as approach to the bridge from the Connecticut side of the river through private land to the North Stonington road, as originally planned, the work to be paid for by private subscription. Mr. Peabody drew up the subscriptions papers, made a subscription, and Horace Vose of Westerly and Richard Wheeler of North Stonington did the rest, with the assistance of those who contributed the teams, labor and cash.

At the local thread mill there was recent reduction of work and wages in one of the departments, and naturally there was objection to the plan by employees. One of the girls who had been at work for the company thirteen years was selected to treat with the superintendent. As a result this girl was discharged on the ground of alleged incompetence. Since this incident others declined to do work in connection with the work upon which she was employed, upon the ground that she was discharged for incompetency after a long service, but for representing the interests of the employed.

The feeling of dissatisfaction has spread, and now about fifty employees of the twisting and warp spinning departments have quit work, until present unsatisfactory conditions are adjusted.

Westerly's military organization, the Fifth company, will be stationed at Fort Greble during the maneuvers next summer. The assignment of the first district will be with Headquarters at Fort Greble, as follows: Second and Seventh companies, Battery Hale, 19 each guns First and Fifth, Battery Sedgwick, 12 each mortars; Lieutenant colonel at Fort Wethersfield, with Fourth, Sixth and Eighth, at 12 inch batteries and six inch guns.

The headquarters of the second district will be at Fort Adams.

The Caledonian society celebrated its sixteenth anniversary in Narragansett hotel, the guests including the members of White Heather lodge, which brought the attendance to over two hundred. The opening address of welcome was by Chief Thomas Broadfoot, and the following program was rendered: Selection by the Caledonian trio, Thomas Broadfoot, Alexander Beattie and James Broadfoot; song, Miss Margaret Grant; reading, Halsey Kenyon; song, Miss Nellie Ahearn; duet, James and Thomas Broadfoot; song, John Piddis; reading, Alexander Beattie; selection, Caledonian trio.

The board of relief of the town of Stonington has completed its work, and the abstract in the office of Town Clerk Hinchley shows an increase in the grand list of $13,847. The summary follows: Grand list 1907, $5,292,288; grand list 1908, $5,788,345; additions to none residents 1907, $9,600; to residents in 1908, $2,250; additions to residents 1907, $8,000; error, $94,250; non-residents 1907, $295,079; in 1908, $295,079; to non-residents 1907, $167,105; in 1908, $183,028; statutory deductions 1908, $76,320; in 1907, $73,510.

Rev. John Collins supplied the pulpit Sunday of Calvary Baptist church. It was announced that Rev. F. C. A. Jones of Rochester, N. Y., had accepted the call to become pastor of the church, and will assume the duties next June. Jones' family will probably not come to Westerly until a month or more later, as a daughter is to graduate from the Rochester high school in June.

Local Laconics. Joseph W. Gaffney of Westerly has been elected to the state board of education. George P. Clark has purchased a dwelling house and lot in Shamrock from Mrs. Mary L. Cranston of Williamstown.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

Wants to Be Let Alone.

One little word in the account of the reporter's visit to Friday's paper may or may not have escaped general notice. One of the reporters called him Colonel Roosevelt. He was entitled to that designation by military service and especially now by his having become an editor. He had three times been "bravely" around the shoulder of the reporter who called him colonel and told the truth. But it didn't soften his marble heart. No more interviews, no more photographs, no more publicity—"so long as I am a newspaper editor." Those were his words. Did the alert Roosevelt make a slip there? One of the quick-witted reporters interjected the question: "How long will that be?" The ex-president, only slightly, but still seemingly a little embarrassed, replied with equal quickness: "As long as I can make it." Does he then contemplate the possibility of a compulsory return to public life?—Waterbury American.

and the rejection of the bill on the strength of the report, does not mean, says Senator Luther, an unfavorable attitude of the committee on education with respect to the whole subject of teachers' pensions. The turning down of all advised bills on the subject should strengthen the right measure when it comes up.—Bridgeport Standard.

Something Overwhelming. Two young women, Miss F. A. McLeod and her sister, Mrs. W. Hyslop, both of Torngto, made the trip from Alexandria, Egypt, to Yuma, Arizona, as the only first class passengers on the big Cunardian Caronia. They had an army of stewards, every officer and the gallant commander dancing attendance, an orchestra playing for their special benefit, and the row of waiters that lined up when they entered the dining room for the first time was terrifying, but soon became a pleasant joke.—Waterbury American.

MR. AND MRS. ROOSEVELT. Trudge Three Miles Through Snow and Slush to Church.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 7.—For President Theodore Roosevelt and his wife trudged today through the slush and snow to church. They had left Sagamore Hill, three miles from the village, at 10.30 a. m. The former president was dressed in a gray sack suit and had on homelike heavy russet shoes. It was with his usual rapid stride that he swung along, and Mrs. Roosevelt had difficulty in keeping pace with him. They were in their pew at Christ Episcopal church ten minutes before the hour for service.

On the way from home they met many of their neighbors and chatted with them. Their children, Miss Ethel and Kermit, rode to church in a cart. Although Mr. Roosevelt is not a member of the Episcopal church, being a member of the Dutch Reformed church, he partook of the sacrament with Mrs. Roosevelt and their children. There were no curious persons to see Mr. Roosevelt at the church.

The Roosevelts left the church before the services were quite over, and thus the former president escaped receiving the greetings of those present. He and Mrs. Roosevelt started at a brisk gallop for Sagamore Hill, three miles away.

During the afternoon Mr. Roosevelt remained in his library reading. He is thoroughly enjoying a much needed rest. No visitors have been received since he returned from his trip to New York on a business trip.

Early this week, probably tomorrow, Mr. Roosevelt will go to New York on a business trip.

New Marlboro Town Records Burned. New Marlboro, Mass., March 7.—All the records of this town since its incorporation, a century and a half ago, were destroyed by the burning of the town hall today. The building was an old structure and of small value. The cause of the fire is unknown.

WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

Keen Rivalry Among House Members for Honor of Filling Vacancies.

Washington, March 7.—As the ways and means committee of the house will have the important duty of reporting the new tariff bill, there is keen rivalry among members of the house for the honor of filling the three vacancies on the committee. The one vacancy in the republican membership made by the expiration of the term of Representative Bonny of Colorado will in all probability be filled by a member from a western state. Representatives Howell of Utah, Burke and Martin of South Dakota and Cushman of Washington have been suggested.

Francis Burton Harrison of New York, although having served only one term in congress, is most prominently spoken of for the vacancy in the minority membership of the committee caused by the retirement of Bourke Cockran of New York. It is understood that Seneca Payne, chairman of the committee, favors Mr. Harrison's appointment, but Champ Clark, minority leader, has declared that he will not give committee appointments any consideration until the fight on the rules has been settled.

Representative William Sulzer of New York, who has served in seven congresses, is also a prominent candidate for the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Granger (democrat) of Rhode Island, but it is believed that a democrat from New England will be given this place. It is generally believed that Representative De Armond will succeed Representative Clark on the committee, as the latter will displace Mr. De Armond on the rules committee.

FINDS HIDDEN TREASURE.

Oregon Farmer Discovers Gold Dust and Nuggets While Spading Field.

Portland, Ore., March 7.—Richard Cornett unearthed $2,000 in gold dust and nuggets while he was spading in his potato patch near this city. The treasure, which was in a rusty tin box, is supposed to have been buried by an old Australian miner, who died on the property over thirty years ago. After the box had been found it was discovered that the place had been marked by twenty-two spikes driven in a log near by. They were in a row pointing toward the treasure. The old miner had confided to his neighbors that he was rich, but no one believed him.

Now that the treasure has been uncovered, hundreds of the residents are searching for more.
